

About the Authors

Anna B. Baranowsky, PhD, CPsych is a registered clinical psychologist and the Founder and director of Traumatology Institute (Canada). She was instrumental in codeveloping training materials for the Traumatology Institute training programs. She received her doctorate in Clinical Psychology at the University of Ottawa. Her accomplishments include the co-development of the Accelerated Recovery Program (ARP) for Compassion Fatigue; National and International presentations on the ARP, trauma assessment, treatment and interventions. She has published in the area of secondary traumatization, compassion fatigue, the ARP and therapeutic relationships (the Silencing Response). Dr. Baranowsky serves on the Board of Directors of the Academy of Traumatology's Commission on Certification and Accreditation and the Canadian Centre for Psychosocial-Oncology. She has been recognized by the American Academy of Experts in Traumatic Stress with Diplomate status and is a Board Certified Expert in Traumatic Stress.

Dr. Baranowsky dedicates a large portion of her clinical practice to care for the emotional well-being of trauma survivors. She has been trained in many cutting-edge trauma treatments now being recognized as highly effective in resolving the emotional aftermath of exposure to trauma. Dr. Baranowsky works with a wide range of trauma survivors from airplane crash survivors to victims of violence and even the first responders at trauma scenes. Her dedication to the emotional recovery of survivors is witnessed in her passion for training others to gain skills to work effectively in the newly emerging field of Traumatology.

J. Eric Gentry, MA, CAC, CTS is a Licensed Mental Health Counselor who has over 23 years of experience working with trauma survivors. Beginning in 1997, he has written pivotal elements of the Traumatology Institute's award-winning curriculum. He served as Co-Director for the International Traumatology Institute during its tenure at the University of South Florida. He currently is the Director of Training for Corporate Crisis Management, Inc. in Tampa, Florida, where the Traumatology Certification courses are regularly offered.

D. Franklin Schultz, PhD is a clinical psychologist in private practice in central Florida. He is a Master Traumatologist, Compassion Fatigue Specialist, and Clinical Director of the Polk County Critical Incident Stress Management team providing CISM services to first responders.