
Contents

| | | |
|---------------------------|---|-----|
| Editorial | What We Can Learn From Animal Behavior Undine E. Lang | 149 |
| Review Article | Behavioral Testing of Mice Concerning Anxiety and Depression: What Can We Learn From it? Nina Schweinfurth and Undine E. Lang | 151 |
| Original Articles | Inflammational Animal Models for Schizophrenia Georg Juckel | 157 |
| | Phosphoinositide-Dependent Protein Kinase 1 (PDK1): Impact on Schizophrenia Risk and Endophenotype Profile Undine E. Lang, Teresa F. Ackermann, David Wolfer, Florian Schubert, Reinhard Sohr, Heide Hörtnagl, Florian Lang, and Juergen Gallinat | 165 |
| | Subtle Impact of Akt1 and Akt3 on Exploratory Behavior in Gene Targeted Mice Christina Leibrock, Michael Hierlmeier, Undine E. Lang, and Florian Lang | 173 |
| | Transgenerational Transmission of Stress Pathology: Contributions of Rodent Models Margarete Bolten | 181 |
| Research Spotlight | From Animal Behavior to Human Health: An Animal-Assisted Mindfulness Intervention for Recurrent Depression Elisabeth Schramm, Karin Hediger, and Undine E. Lang | 192 |
| Call for Papers | “Neuroscience and Education: Added Value of Combining Brain Imaging and Behavioral Research”: A Topical Issue of the Zeitschrift für Psychologie Guest Editors: Elisabeth Stern, Roland H. Grabner, and Ralph Schumacher | 201 |
