Information for subscribers

Ordering

Subscriptions can be placed at any of our offices in Germany, Switzerland, or the USA.

Subscription period

Subscriptions usually run from January to December. For subscribers joining during the year, the minimum term of the subscription is one year.

Renewals and cancellations

Renewal notices are issued to subscribers outside Germany, Austria, and Switzerland for the following journals: Aviation Psychology and Applied Human Factors, Crisis, Experimental Psychology, European Journal of Health Psychology, European Journal of Psychological Assessment, European Psychologist, International Perspectives in Psychology, Journal of Individual Differences, Journal of Media Psychology, Journal of Personnel Psychology, Journal of Psychophysiology, Rorschachiana, Social Psychology, Zeitschrift für Psychologie. Subscriptions for other customers are automatically renewed for an additional year if not cancelled in writing 4 weeks before the end of the subscription year.

Shipping and handling costs

Shipping and handling costs are mentioned separately; they are not included in the subscription rates. They cover one subscription, which is directly sent printed matter (2nd class mail) by surface-mail. Upon request journals will be sent by air-mail which is charged extra. No discount on shipping costs.

Agency discount

Agency discount 10% on English language titles, 20% on German language titles. We grant 15% discount on print&online subscriptions of German language titles and 10% on eOnly subscriptions.

Back issues

Back issues of our periodicals are supplied as long as available. Prices on request.

Claims

Claims for missing issues are accepted within the framework of the legal requirements.

Changes of address

Changes of address should be sent in four weeks before validity and must include the journal's title, as well as the former and the new address.

Please note that these prices, especially the postage rates, are subject to change.

Information correct as of August 2024

Online access to full-text

Subscribers to journals published by the Hogrefe group (Hogrefe Verlag, Hogrefe Publishing, Hogrefe AG) are provided with access to the corresponding full-text online. The precise conditions differ between individual and institutional subscribers.

Online subscriptions always include access to the complete archive of back issues (usually starting with the 1999 volume) during the term of the subscription.

Individual subscribers

Individual subscribers will be provided with personal access to full-text articles via email address and password. The online access is already included in the subscription price. A user account for the electronic access can easily be set up on our eJournals platform: <https://econtent.hogrefe.com>. Our support team at econtent@hogrefe.com will activate the access for our subscribers.

Journals package for psychology journals:

For an annual fee of € 375.00/CHF 498.00, individual subscribers can also obtain online access to the full-text (in general, including back issues from 1999 onwards) of all 29 active psychology journals as well as the 13 archive journals published by the Hogrefe group (PsyJOURNALS package).

Institutional subscribers

Institutional customers must pay a fee to obtain electronic access to the journals. Institutions have the choice between a print-only subscription, an eOnly subscription, or a combination of print and online. Prices are arranged in ascending order.

Fees for online access to the journals depend on the size of the institution. For academic institutions and schools, the size is determined on the basis of the number of "full-time equivalents" (FTEs; students, teaching staff, research staff) and for public libraries on the basis of the number of registered users (throughout the institution, not single departments). Hospitals will be invoiced on the basis of their total number of beds (throughout the institution, not single departments). For all other institutions (counselling services, public authorities, commercial organizations, etc.), the size is determined on the basis of the number of potential qualified users within the institution, e.g., psychologists, therapists, counsellors, social workers, etc. ("Relevant Professionals" or RPs).

Using these indicators institutional customers are categorized in one of the four tiers (1, 2, 3 and 4):

	Tier 1	Tier 2	Tier 3	Tier 4
FTEs/Users	0-249	250-4.999	5.000-15.000	> 15,000
RPs	0-9	10-99	100-200	>200
Beds	0-49	50-149	150-300	>300

The prices can be found on the individual journals' pages. Additionally, a current price list for all subscription options and tiers can be found in the annex to this catalogue (from p. 88 on).

Please note that these prices only apply to single-site institutions. Multi-site institutions should request an individual price quotation from our support team at econtent@hogrefe.com.

The online access is usually granted via IP authentication or Remote Access (Shibboleth). As an alternative we also offer access via URL-referrer.

We will be happy to provide a detailed price quotation tailored to your requirements. Please contact econtent@hogrefe.com.

Archive rights after termination of subscription

Since the introduction of our current pricing model (starting with the 2019 annual volumes), institutional subscribers are granted perpetual access rights to the annual volumes for which they had a paid subscription, regardless of the price category. Institutions that paid for online use prior to 2019 retain perpetual archive rights to these volumes as well.

The eJournals are provided and can be used via the current platform Hogrefe eContent. Should the Hogrefe group be unable to ensure access via Hogrefe eContent, the journal contents may also be distributed through another means (e.g., another online platform or as PDF).

Free access to bibliographic information

Full bibliographic information and abstracts are available free of charge for non-subscribers at <https://econtent.hogrefe.com/psychology> or (for medical journals) at <https://econtent.hogrefe.com/health-sciences>.
