

Experimental Psychology

Call for Nominations for Editor-in-Chief

March 2021

The outgoing Editors-in-Chief Andreas Eder and Christian Frings, together with Hogrefe Publishing, are soliciting nominations – including self-nominations – for the post of Editor-in-Chief for the journal Experimental Psychology, to take effect from July 2021. The journal may continue having two joint Editors-in-Chief or have a single Editor in Chief. In either case, the Editor or Editors will enjoy full editorial independence and will be responsible for the scientific content of the journal, which appears in 6 issues per annual volume.

The current mission of the journal is to publish innovative, original, high-quality experimental research in psychology. The scope of the journal is defined by the experimental method, and so papers based on experiments from all areas of psychology are published. In addition to research articles, Experimental Psychology includes occasional theoretical and review articles.

Why is Experimental Psychology a quality journal?

- Professional outlet for cutting-edge experimental research in psychology for more than 50 years
- Rigorous peer review and a dedicated editorial team
- Electronic manuscript submission and peer review via Editorial Manager
- Transparency through TOP guidelines and open science practices
- Author-friendly and non-bureaucratic handling of submissions

What makes Experimental Psychology special?

- Open to all disciplines of experimental research in psychology
- Various article types (Research Articles, Theoretical Articles, Registered Reports, Brief Articles reporting a single experiment)
- Preregistration of Registered Reports using a two-tiered system
- Dedication to open science practices (data archiving, open science badges, etc.)
- Low hurdle submission guidelines
- Rapid quality checks of incoming submissions
- Regular publication of gold open access papers
- Range of publishing model options for authors: traditional publication with green open access and no embargo on posting author accepted manuscript; gold open access for a fair APC; and open access without an APC under a transformative publish-and-read agreement with 100+ institutions in Germany!

The term of office will be for 3 or 4 years from July 2021 initially, with the possibility to renew for a further term. Candidates for the position of Editor-in-Chief should have prior editorial experience with a peer-reviewed journal of some standing and a strong scientific record in experimental psychology, and should be in a position to offer the commitment and expertise that such a position will require. Financial support for editorial assistance and other expenses is currently provided by the publisher.

Nominations (including self-nominations) should be sent, together with a brief CV or description of relevant qualifications, to:

Experimental Psychology
Hogrefe Publishing GmbH
Merkelstr. 3
37085 Göttingen
Germany
E-mail production@hogrefe.com
Website <http://www.hgf.io/exppsy>

Informal enquiries may also be directed to the publisher.

The closing date for receipt of nominations is May 1, 2021.