

---

Contents

---

Editorial	Approaches to a Complex Phenomenon: The Basic Mechanisms and Clinical Applications of Placebo Effects Regine Klinger and Luana Colloca	121
Review Articles	Reevaluating the Placebo Effect in Medical Practice Luana Colloca, Wayne B. Jonas, John Killen Jr., Franklin G. Miller, and David Shurtleff	124
	Antidepressants and the Placebo Effect Irving Kirsch	128
	Placebo and Nocebo Effects in Chronic Pain Patients: How Expectations and Emotional Feelings Contribute to the Experience of Pain Lene Vase, Ina Skyt, Gitte Laue Petersen, and Donald D. Price	135
	How to Psychologically Minimize Scratching Impulses: Benefits of Placebo Effects on Itching Using Classical Conditioning and Expectancy Ariane Sölle, Theresa Bartholomäus, Margitta Worm, and Regine Klinger	140
	Learned Placebo Effects in the Immune System Sabine Vits and Manfred Schedlowski	148
Original Articles	The Effects of Manipulating Verbal Suggestions on Physical Performance Elisa Carlino, Fabrizio Benedetti, and Antonella Pollo	154
	Patient Involvement in Treatment Decision Making Can Help or Hinder Placebo Analgesia: The Moderating Role of Prior Experience Andrew L. Geers, Jason P. Rose, Stephanie L. Fowler, and Jill A. Brown	165
	Minimizing Carry-Over Effects After Treatment Failure and Maximizing Therapeutic Outcome: Can Changing the Route of Administration Mitigate the Influence of Treatment History? Mareile Hofmann, Nathalie Wrobel, Simon Kessner, and Ulrike Bingel	171
	Analgesics in Chronic Back Pain: The Significance of Patient Attitudes to Them and Prior Experience With Them for Placebo Responses Sandra Kamping, Maike Müller, Regine Klinger, Julia Schmitz, and Herta Flor	179
Call for Papers	“New Directions in Reactance Theory”: A Topical Issue of the Zeitschrift für Psychologie Guest Editors: Sandra Sittenthaler, Eva Jonas, Eva Traut-Mattausch, and Jeff Greenberg	186

---